HONGKONG, JUNE 8RD 1871

THE cable between this and Singapore is now Mr. CRUIKSHANKS, the representative of the Telegraph Construction and Maintenance Company, received intelligence at p.m. yesterday from the man at the Beak that one of the vessels was drawing in, and on going down he found the Minia anchored, and that it was decided to land the cable at once. The work was proceeded with under the appervision of Messrs, Lowden and Lawes, and their respective staffs, and the landing of the shore end of the cable was successfully accomplished by 11 p.m., thus accomplishing the work only one day behind the strict time, which day even would not have been lost but for very severe weather off the Paracelles, which caused considerable delay: We have great pleasure in Company and the others concerned on this

LATEST TELEGRAM.

- LONDON, 30th May. been taken. The Archbishou of Paris has been shot. The Hotel de Ville, the Louvre and the Tuilleries have been burnt

It will be noticed that the last part of the telegram confirms the rumour we mentioned on Thursday; but it appears that the French Bank has escaped, while in addition to the Tuileries, the Louvre and Hotel de went up the hill and found a Chinaman Fab Ville have fullou.

A very great deal of pains were taken by the noted on the official minutes that Mr. Moonofficiousness in recording what appeared to be a shortcoming on the part of a fellow more staid and experienced members of the Council, ultimately successful, it is only right that the true merits of the matter should be set forth. It is very easy to understand that Mr. Moorsom, as would be the case with any to be harrassed by combinations among the Chinese contractors; and this is likely to be the case in an aggravated form if the Chinese have an idea that there is another office in Hongkong at which complaints as to the other, and the second prisoner said to the manner in which he exercises his discretion in the selection of tenders are likely to be This certainly appeared to be the case from some remarks which were made at the meeting of the Council on the 3rd May; and, if it is the fact that there has attack began. The witness identified his bloodbeen any interference, either direct or indirect. of this nature, the difficulty of the Surveyor-GENERAL in obtaining a suitable tender is he was too much confused at the time to recoleasily enough understood. Why such a very great point should be made of the matter it is quite impossible to understand. It has often enough happened before that am estimate has been made which has proved under the mark; and it is quite conceivable that any one may make an error in calculation, and this is the sum total of the shortcoming on the part of the Surveyor-General -not very surprising considering the frequency with which Chinese combine, and their likelihood to do so with respect to so tempting a job asycofing Government House. One point which was brought up in the course of the discussion-which seemed to be more a personal affair than enything else-was the being able to pay with sufficient promptitude to induce Chinese confractors to take Government work at the same rates as ordinary work. This is decidedly characteristic of Hongkong muddling, and the sooner an end is put to it the better. Surely the credit of the Colony does not stand so low that the necessary funds in such cases could not be obtained from the Banks; and it would be far cheaper to pay interest in the regular way at current rates than to do so in the form of exorbitant demands on the part of the Contractors. But this probably is too abstruce a calculation for the Hongkong Executive

Passing, however, from this portion of the blown out subject, it may be well to suggest that the system of inviting tenders at present would be very desirable that the whole matter should be reconsidered. In the majority of instances the tendering is a mere farce, as must of necessity be the case when it is only in the hands of Chinese contractors. Everybody knows that in matters of this kind Chinese combine instead of competing. Nothing, therefore, can be more unreasonable than to adhere to a system which can only be of use in vogue. As to the idea that the Sunveyoras the time of no man in the position would possible to meet the difficulty by placing a soner (captured by Carreen Bur) not guilty. portion of the works in the hands of local architects; and we suspect 'if this plan were adopted that the tendency to combine against | against whom nothing was known. the Government would be less; as the Chinese contractors could never be sure that a foreign architect would not find means of allowed. HIGHWAY ROBDERY. Lum Afook and Lum Aling were placed at the bur, charged with robbing one Emain Bux of his silver watch and 13 rupeos on the Pokfolum road on the 14th May, and also with beating, striking, wounding, and using personal violence to the said I man Bux. The America General stated the on a follows :- The complainant was a boatswain mate on board the stempship China: On the 14th he went ashore for a walk, and passed through some markets, &c., and ultimutely got upon a road which he did, not recollect, which from the other evidence would prove to he the Poktolum road, near the junction of Caine and Robinson roads. It was getting dark, and he thought of going back. Perhaps congratulating the Telegraph Construction he had been drinking, though he would say that he knew what he was about at all events. He was accested by a Chinaman who carried a satisfactory completion of their important lantern, and was saked by him whether be man gave bim some blows with a knife, which rendered him nearly insensible. There was no doubt about the fact that the man was robbed because he was found there wounded, and was taken to the hospital. The question would be pressed and there are no dusurgent hands whether the prisoners were the men who committed the rubbery. The evidence us to this was circumstantial. The complainant said he made a great outery, and caught hold of one of the men; but however that might be, a man named Curreon Bux beard a disturbance, and on coming up found Eman Bux lying there wounded. Mr. Blackwood, second Police clerk, ulso came up, and on hearing in which direction one of the men had gone ran off in that direction. While he was away: Correem Bux

He pointed to some backets, and said he was a Acting Colonial-Treasurer at the last water corrier. Meanwhile, Mr. Blackwood bad meeting of the Legislative Council to have it rim in the direction in which the other man was anprosed to have gone. On the way he found a politeman, whom he told to be on the som was unable to carry out the roofing of look-out. After this he found a Chinaman Government House; and as this amiable under a lamp post, and saw blood on his hands. He soized him, and was bringing him back to where the wounded man was lying, when the Chinaman, on passing a gulley, escaped from official was, though opposed by some of the his grasp and jumped into the gulley, probably or the purpose of washing the stains from his hands. Mr. Blackwood, however, was too quick for him, jumped upon him, and secured him, but it appeared that in the struggle in the gulley the prispner was wounded in the head, so that any marks of blood afterwards found upon him might have come from his head. The pribody else in his position, is extremely likely soner was then taken to where the wounded man was lying. Mr. Blackwood afterwards returned to the gulley, where he found a handkerchief, which was identified by Eman Bur, Another circumstance might be mentioned, and that was that when the two prisoners were brought together in custody they spoke to each that he bad been robbed and wounded.

Mr. Blackwood's evidence was then taken. The blood he saw at first about the first prisoner was on the back of his wrist, and there were no other marks of blood upon him. The guley: was apparently a water-course, but was now dry. The mark on the wrist was not visible fter the struggle. On the meeting of the prisoners, the second said excitedly to the first, "Nee tah yan," "You struck the man," and added some words which witness did not recolgot aggurately. > PRESIDENT GRANT AND THE - COMMISSION.

(To the Editor of the Times,") Sir,-I welcome your article of Monday upon the Joint High Commission, and I am sure it will be welcomed by that great gurt of the American people who have hoped for the best results from the conference at Washington; There are, however, one or two considerations, which, from an American point of view, I trust you will deem worthy of attention.

There is a prevailing American sentiment that the settlement of the Alabana question is so much the affair of England that any reasonable proposition from the Washington Cabinet must of necessity be friendly and peaceful. It does not seem to be sufficiently remembered in England that America has a few active and influential public men who hold that an open issue with your Government is a necessary element in American politice. They feel that the best way to settle the "Alabama Claims" is to leave tuem unsettled. They contend that the precedent which was created either by the law of England or the administration of its Govern. ment is so dangerous that its existence alone is a menace to your naval power. They reason that if in any way, tawfully or unlawfully, it was possible for Admiral Semmes to buy war-ships at Birkenhead, it would be just as possible, lawfully or unlawfully, for the enterprising Admiral of any Power that chanced to be at war. with England to buy ships at New York or San Francisco and attack your commerce, When it is further considered that America has shipbuilding ports on the two great comus, it is argued that the Alabama precedent adds largely to the difficulties which war imposes upon any country, and that, in your case especially. America would be practically in perpetual alliance with any maritime Power that chose to attack your flag.

This is naturally beightened by the reflection contend-and I will not pause to challenge the and in the thought, that this commerce was destroyed by English ships and English guns-the The Communists were defeated at Brayeres | ships and gubs of a nation with whom America was at peace. William M. Everte, pending the decisions in the lawstit on their behalf shove-mentioned, applying for an injunction to restrain the Brie Company from issuing any more new stock. There are rumours. that further leaves are in contemplation, and this proceeding to prevent them was found. ed on an affidavit of Mr. John Swann that an issue of $10,000,000 new stock was to be made. The Brie lawyers objected to the injunction, filed in open court, by which the company promised that no new stock would be issued. This was not satisfactory to Mr. Evarts, who urged an injunction, and Judge Blatchford's decision, approunced to day, was that the injunction to prevent the issue be granted. ROBINSON. In the House of Commons on the 18th April Lord H. Lennox (C.) moved for a select committee to inquire into the circumstances which led to the dismissal of Vice-Admiral Spencer Robinson from the post of Third Lord of the Admiralty by the Prime Minister. Having disclaimed any party or personal interest in the uniter, the noble tord detailed the public services of Sir. Spencer Robinson, (who had, he said, given up his professional prospects in order to devote himself to civilian pursuits at the Admiralty), and described the circumstances under which he had been deprived of his anpointment. It was, he maintained in the last degree unjust that so distinguished a public servant, and so trusted a colleague of the
